

1. Integrated care in every community (2018)

3 mins changing care needs: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3YdIV1DsK54> and partnerships

Joined up, preventative and personal

2. How does the NHS in England work? (2017)

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=DEARD4I3xtE>

6.33mins - says ACS not ICS otherwise good explanation

3. Improving population health on the frontline - a patient's view

4.48 mins GP and real people discuss effect of change in health care:

https://www.youtube.com/watch?time\_continue=288&v=yTdLDKQX\_VE&feature=emb\_title

4. King's Fund reference: (Anna Charles, April 2020) Integrated care systems explained: making sense of systems, places and neighbourhoods

(To read)

<https://www.kingsfund.org.uk/publications/integrated-care-systems-explained>

In an integrated care system, NHS organisations, in partnership with local councils and others, take collective responsibility for managing resources, delivering NHS standards, and improving the health of the population they serve.

Local services can provide better and more joined-up care for patients when different organisations work together in this way. For staff, improved collaboration can help to make it easier to work with colleagues from other organisations. And systems can better understand data about local people's health, allowing them to provide care that is tailored to individual needs.

“Integrated care systems (ICSs) are a key part of the NHS long-term plan, and are intended to bring about major changes in how health and care services are planned, paid for and delivered. ICSs are partnerships that bring together providers and commissioners of NHS services across a geographical area with local authorities and other local partners, to collectively plan and integrate care to meet the needs of their population.

ICSs are the latest in a long line of initiatives aiming to integrate care across local areas. They have grown out of sustainability and transformation partnerships (STPs), local partnerships formed in 2016 to develop long-term plans for the future of health and care services in their area. Compared to STPs, ICSs are a closer form of collaboration in which NHS organisations and local authorities take on greater responsibility for collectively managing resources and performance and for changing the way care is delivered.”

5. <https://www.england.nhs.uk/integratedcare/integrated-care-systems/> - location of current ICSs in England

6. South Yorkshire and Bassetlaw ICS home page: <https://www.healthandcaretogethersyb.co.uk/>

7. SYB news item which you will be interested in!

<https://www.healthandcaretogethersyb.co.uk/about-us/whychange/latest-news/south-yorkshire-and-bassetlaw-take-part-national-type-2-diabetes-and-weight-loss-nhs-programme>